What is hypnosis?

Hypnosis is a state of deep concentration where you are fully relaxed but also awake and in control. The subconscious mind is open to positive suggestions without interference from the critical voice in hypnosis, so you can release the habits that no longer serve you well, and set up new frameworks, feelings and mindsets to live the life you want.

When you re-program your mindset your thoughts create the beliefs, feelings, words and actions that get the results you want.

Having been a teacher for 10 years and then working in the interpersonal healing field, I'm not interested in feeding people gimmicks and quick fixes that pressure people to achieve outcomes but ignore their real needs. Healing is spiritual and it is natural. We are all healers – I only facilitate the wisdom you already have to come to the forefront so you inspire lasting change in yourself. We will use hypnosis and transformational coaching processes to go deep and get results. It's my mission to teach people to avoid the patterns that block their truth and help them uncover their best, vibrant and beautiful selves.

Hypnosis Heals

Dealing with Stress

We all go through busy, stressful times and can react with anxiousness, fear, anger and negative thinking. Hypnosis can eliminate the thought patterns that create negative responses to stressful situations. Hypnosis can silence the critical voice in our head that is always pushing us to do more and can re-program our beliefs and habits to align with a healthy, manageable and pleasurable lifestyle.

Dealing with Chronic Illness

Dealing with long term illness can make us feel vulnerable, isolated and deflated. It is easy to fall into fearfulness about our health and life and feel stuck, hopeless or frustrated. Hypnosis can help reduce fears around illness and instill healthy coping habits to face each day with more positivity. It can help you relax, reduce pain, and even speak to your body to train it into healthy functioning. Hypnosis can bring good feelings of health empowerment to the forefront so recovery is faster and easier.

Break Out of Old Patterns

We are all products of our surroundings, our upbringing, our culture and society. Sometimes we take on patterns from an early time in life that no longer serve us well. Hypnosis can delete those imprints from the subconscious and set up new patterns of thinking, speaking and being that reflect who we now are and want to become.
